at the Brown Wing, Emerson Waldorf School

Dear Friends -- you are cordially invited to attend our fifth annual artistic observance and Celebration for the Unborn ~ ~ those awaiting incarnation. We acknowledge that there are souls preparing to enter the earth sphere.

“Between death and a new birth we prepare our earthly life. We work, together with spiritual beings, upon the conditions into which we shall descend.”
Rudolf Steiner, Karmic Relationships, Vol. I (GA 235)

“In the child we see the being who has but recently descended from divine-spiritual worlds.”
Rudolf Steiner, The Education of the Child in the Light of Anthroposophy (GA 34)

We will celebrate the soul’s journey to earthly embodiment with offerings of music, creative speech, eurythmy, lived personal experience, and conversation. Our contributors: Eve Olive, Melody Miller, Evangeline Ray, Helena Syrovatkova, Gareth Dicker, Lynn Jericho, Martha Gardner, Diana Haynes, Suzanne Mays, Supreet Way, and Ben Bingham, with inspiration from Wordsworth, Schubert, Debussy, Chopin, Pedrolì, and Schumann.

We’ll have a break in the middle of the program, and afterwards, light refreshments and snacks (please bring something to share), and socializing. Come with loving and thoughtful hearts as we continue in this tradition with all the wonder and reverence we possess.

Our gathering is sponsored by the Anthroposophical Society of North Carolina
